ACHIEVEMENTS CBC Campus Episode 4: Going in circles

GOING IN CIRCLES

Personally selected and interviewed in a podcast titled Episode 4: Going in circles with CBC, in the new series CBC Campus.

Spoke about the topic of mental health and mental illness, and how that can affect one in their personal life, throughout highschool, and while on campus in postsecondary. It instantly became one of the top rated podcasts in that series, and actually raised the ratings of the series to be one of the top podcasts listened to on iTunes and Soundcloud. It was also aired numerous times on CBC Radio. CBC furthermore wrote an article about myself on their website, made a short video about my art and my words, and shared another mental health advocate's story about her son's experiences with mental health relating it to my podcast. It aired all over North America and has been heard world wide, currently having almost 11,000 listens on SoundCloud.com

The Taylor Group - Logistics Coordinator Assistant

Constructed and dismantled booths for trade shows and auto shows Packed and organized booths and supplies for shipping and set-ups WORLDWIDE

Applied graphics to booths for trade shows and auto shows Combined physically demanding labour with an eye for attention to fine details and constant strive for perfection

I gained experience on a different side of advertising that I did not study in school

I understand now, the importance of being organized, and meeting strict and constant deadlines

This company takes pride in what it creates, and it is this very shared pride that inspires its workers to always be attentive to details, and aim for a level of perfection that is so careful and professional, it rarely disappoints
